

Festival's Christmas Celebration

SOUTHWELL Music Festival brings its high quality music making to the Minster's Christmas programme on Friday 20th December at 7.30pm.

A Christmas Celebration is a programme of seasonal words and choral music that is both atmospheric and entertaining – from celebrations of Christmases long past to the present day.

This year there will be a special focus on the music of 20th century English composer Herbert Howells, including his evocative and well-known carols 'A Spotless Rose', 'Here is the little door' and 'Long, long ago'.

This seasonal music will be complemented by evocative readings in poetry and prose – some familiar, others less so.

The Southwell Festival Voices, whose members are drawn from Britain's top professional choirs, will be conducted by Festival Artistic Director Marcus Farnsworth.

Marcus says: "This concert offers a popular potpourri of sacred and secular words and music for Christmas through the ages."

"We are delighted that the Festival has such wide local appeal and we hope that this will, once again, be an enjoyable contribution to Christmas in Southwell."

Tickets from £12 are available online at www.southwellmusicfestival.com/onlinebooking or by calling 01636 330014.

The concert, which takes place by kind permission of the Cathedral Chapter, is being generously supported by Mr Geoffrey Bond and an anonymous donor.
